

Unit 1: Pahari School of Miniature Painting

What does "Pahari" mean?

- It simply means "hilly" or "mountainous".
- These paintings come from the Western Himalayas (17th - 19th Century).

Quick Map of Sub-Schools

- Basohli: The earliest and most bold style.
- Guler: Where the "natural" look started.
- Kangra: The most famous, poetic, and lyrical phase.
- Others: Kullu, Chamba, Mandi, Jammu, Bilaspur.

Key Personalities

- B.N. Goswamy: The big scholar who studied these schools.
- Pandit Seu: The "Father" figure who changed the style in Guler with his sons Manak and Nainsukh.
- Raja Sansar Chand: The king who made Kangra a huge success.

Main Features (Exam Checklist!)

- Faces: Oval-shaped, high forehead, and "Lotus petal" eyes.
- Nature: Lots of mountains, trees, and pleasant weather.
- Colors: High intensity! Bright reds, yellows, and blues.
- Clothing:
 - Women: Choli, long Lehenga, transparent Chunri.
 - Men: Tight Pajama, short Kurta, and headgear.

Analogy: If Mughal art is a formal court photo, Pahari art is like a lyrical, romantic poem turned into a picture.
